BRIDGEVILLE LIBRARY TO GET NEW ROOF!

The Trustees of the Bridgeville Public Library have decided that a new roof is needed for the library. Although the present roof is only ten years old, the shingles have been loose and causing problems the last five years. Several roofers have made repairs and advised that the old cedar shakes underneath are the culprit because they will no longer hold nails. A local roofer has been contracted to begin in January to remove both the existing roof and the old cedar shakes and install a new roof. The cost is estimated near $15,000.00

The Trustees are asking for donations, but also expect to need to reduce the Library budget in some areas and perhaps borrow some funds to pay for the new roof. All donations should be sent to the Bridgeville Public Library, 210 Market Street. For more information call Carol Gasior, Director, 337-7401.

GET YOUR FLU SHOT THIS YEAR!!

The flu can be serious for people 65 and over. It can lead to dangerous and costly health problems, especially for those with chronic illnesses such as heart disease, asthma, emphysema, bronchitis, kidney disease, or diabetes. You also need a shot each year because flu types change every year. Give it some serious thought.... However, consult your physician first and always.

GET CHIMNEY CLEANED YEARLY!!

What better way to spend crisp winter evenings than in front of a crackling fire, until of course, the bird's nest clogging your chimney sends smoke rolling through your living room, sending your coughing family into the great outdoors! Be it a wood stove or fireplace, have your chimney cleaned and inspected yearly.....

BAD WEATHER'S COMING-BE PREPARED!!

Oil change, antifreeze, engine, battery, belts, hoses, tires, cold weather gear, shovels, salt, flares, first aid kits, cell phones. These should all be checked and included with your vehicle this time of year. No matter where you travel, temperatures are dropping. So plan ahead for your own good and safety.

SNOW REMOVAL....

After a snowfall make sure your sidewalks are cleared so as not to interrupt your mail from being delivered on time. Your local postal carrier would appreciate your efforts!!!

"ON TAP"

COMMISSIONER JACK DALTON

As we reach the end of the year, we are pleased to report that we have experienced no major problems with the water system. Credit is due to our fine staff for keeping our system well maintained and operational to provide quality water to our Town.

The most important thing facing us right now is not with the water, but the situation involving our wastewater treatment plan. I am working with our Wastewater Commissioner, Charles Royal, to address a significant problem. Just more than five years after completing the major upgrade to our system, an upgrade that we were told by the State would carry us well into the future, we are faced with a State mandate to reduce our nutrient level by fifty percent. This mandate is the result of a recent court case wherein the state was found to have understated the level of nutrient loading in our streams and groundwater. As a matter of fact, a recent article in the New Journal states that Delaware's estuaries are the most contaminated in the world.

One of the problems with the current standard is that we understand that it is not the final level of nutrient content the State will mandate. We do not know when that level will be lowered and we will need to make further improvements to our system. Had we known five years ago, we could have planned more effectively when we went into debt for forty years to improve our system.

With this in mind, we face two important questions. One, what level and method of treatment should we consider and two, how should it be paid for? To the first question we have the opportunity to strive for either "Environmental Compliance" or "Environmental Excellence". If we truly want to improve the quality of our environment and solve the problem long-term, then we need to look at getting our effluent out of the streams. This will require a tremendous upgrade to our plant, which because of its age and design will be very expensive.

Then there is the matter of how it will be funded. We have already faced a major increase in the amount we pay for treatment and some in our community cannot afford higher sewer bills. For this reason I feel that we need to work with other towns and industries affected by this recent mandate to secure state funding for what promises to be a major project.

With this in mind, we have asked the towns of Greenwood, Seaford, Laurel and Delmar, and they have agreed to join us in forming the "Western Sussex Wastewater Coalition" to determine the most effective method of protecting our environment and to present to a united front to the state concerning funding.

One of the most promising technologies for reaching Environmental Excellence to spray irrigation. It is being used in other areas of the state with great success. In studying this treatment method we find that the most successful systems are those that included the agricultural community in the planning stage of the project. For this reason we have invited our local farmers to participate in our study. I am pleased to announce that they have agreed to help, for they too want the best for our community.

By the time this newsletter reaches you we will have already had our first meeting on December 9th. We will report to you our progress, and hope to accomplish our goals of protecting our environment as well as the pocketbooks of our citizens.

A CHRISTMAS MYSTERY

Twas the week before Christmas and all around town, the excitement and fun had settled right down. For towns folk were hush, the auxiliary in prayer, for no one in Bridgeville could locate President Bennett.

The police on patrol, they hadn't a clue, they had checked the park, the firehall too.

Doug took to the streets, with Rick and Phillip at his side, to see where that crafty politician might hide.

An emergency meeting of Commissioners they did call, but it was cancelled for Monday night football.

The girls in the office made phone calls to this town and that, but they all questioned as, to where Bridgeville was at!

In thin air, he just disappeared, foul play and disaster is what everyone feared.

The week went on by, we all had our doubts, as to the Town's future, and the President's where-abouts!

And then on the eve of that merry special day; church service in full swing, after a short delay.

Above all the singing, the organ and bells, there came to their ears what sounded like yells.

They ran out the doors, looked towards the water tank; what they saw was surely the start of some prank.

Up on the top were ten fools at the least, dancing around with full wind in their sheets.

They went and they gathered in full congregation, full of contempt, disgust, and aggravation.

Their eyes came accustomed to the night bright and clear, at the foot of the tank, the worst they did fear.

When what over the side of the tank did appear, it was Santa and Bob, and eight tiny reindeer.

Seems he'd planned to help Santa since early fall, and Nick was bringing him back to be with us all.

While flying and caroling the next thing they knew, they were into the tank, all dull and blue.

Then just as with chimneys, Santa lowered him down, scratched but unharmed, he floated to ground.

His wife with a hug, friends loaded with smiles, the President was a sight they'd not seen in a while.

And then with some order regained up on high, t'was time to return to his work in the sky.

Bells began to jingle, directions he did bark, as they ascended the night and flew over the park.

Into the stars they went-sled, Santa and deer. Reins held tightly so he knew where to steer.

It was an eve to remember, a wonderful sight.

As he called Merry Christmas, and to all a good night!.

THE PRESIDENT, TOWN COMMISSIONERS, AND ADMINISTRATION WISH YOU ALL A
HAPPY HOLIDAY, AND A PROSPEROUS
NEW YEAR!.
